Thoughts from Gordon and Julie

Greetings E Team,

I write this newsletter article today with a very heavy heart. On July 11th, we lost a very dear friend and fellow Goldwing family member Dannie Hays. In the short period of time that Dannie and Carole were part of the team, they served as team leaders in a few different areas and most recently as chapter couple in 2012. We will miss Dannie very much, but his memory will always be with us. I will never be able to drive past road kill again and not think of our West Virginia boy. We were blessed to have Dannie as a part of our chapter and as a friend. I would like to thank everyone who assisted with the arrangements, especially Nancy and Karen as they organized things in my absence.

As you read this newsletter, I am suffering at Disney World in Florida. Julie booked us down there for 9 days as she likes a full week there and 2 days travel. I really don't care for that much time in Disney, but Julie, both my daughters and my grandson do, so I sacrifice for my family. You may think I'm joking but I'm not, 7 days at theme parks is not my cup of tea. We already have blisters on our feet, and Drill Sargent Julie still has us marching every day. Really though, Julie spent many hours reading the unofficial Disney travel guide and she has every hour of every day booked. We have exact times to be at certain rides and use our fast path tickets, and if we get off schedule, she finds a way to get us back on track. It really works well, as we can ride and do a lot more based on being in certain places at certain times to avoid the crowds and long lines. This is the second trip she has done this and it works extremely well. If you are planning a trip to Disney, you are welcome to seek her advice.

We are halfway through our triathlon schedule and everything has gone well thus far. We have many members, but only a few who help out consistently with this. My thanks go out to each of you who has helped this year, you are an asset to the team.

We had 15 Chapter E members at Wing Ding and although it rained quite a bit, everyone seemed to have a good time. On the first morning there, Ray Hitt was interviewed on Channel 4, Jere Goodman was interviewed on Channel 5, and I was interviewed live on Channel 7 and they taped an interview with me that was shown at noon, 6 and 11. Now, you might hear rumors as to why I was interviewed, but I will tell the truth here. A certain member of our chapter (who will remain nameless) noticed that the Channel 4 news lady was a very attractive woman, so he asked me to ask her for an interview so he could get closer to her. I obliged and walked right up to her and said "I hear you are looking for someone to interview" and she said "yes, I am, would you mind and can you bring your bike over" and the rest is history. As for Wing Ding, the city of Greenville, SC was very hospitable and treated us very good. The vendors were awesome as usual, there were many Greta seminars, and other fun things to do. Next year's Wing Ding is in Madison, Wisconsin and in 2015 it will be in San Antonio, Texas.

Please forgive me if I left anything out, but I am typing this poolside at the Disney Yacht Club (ok, this part is not suffering) and I do not have my notes or calendar with me. On July 27th, we will be riding to Chapter U's Poker Run so please mark your calendars and make plans to attend.

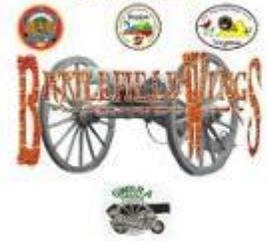

And finally, I will not be chapter director much longer so someone needs to be thinking about stepping up to assistant chapter director and get their feet wet. I am working on my sixth year as CD and I think it is time we had a fresh outlook on the position.

That's it for now. Enjoy the rest of your summer and get out and ride.

During the Homegoing services, Karen Kestner read a poem “The Dash”. Since, many have asked for a copy of that poem to be included in the newsletter. I visited the author’s webpage to research and found that it is copyrighted. Since there isn’t enough time to reach the author or her legal representatives by the time of this publication, the web page will allow me to provide a link to the author’s site. Chapter Rider's Education strategies to live by from Larry

The First and Greatest (Motorcycle Riders') Commandment

What rule or guideline is the most important commandment for ensuring our safety as motorcyclists?

How about never mix alcohol and riding? Or, always ride your own ride? Or, never ride without a helmet (and other riding gear)? Or, always maintain a two second following distance? Or, always ride such that you can safely stop in the distance ahead of you that you can see to be clear?

We could have a pretty good debate, I suppose. In fact, I bet the rider who lost control and crashed his bike an hour ago while reaching down to scratch a mosquito bite on his ankle would argue the most important commandment has something to do with mosquitoes.

Larry on the bridge overlooking Falls Park in downtown Greenville, SC while attending Wing Ding

I think the most important commandment is that we develop, use, and hone an effective riding strategy. The Motorcycle Safety Foundation espouses SEE – Search, Evaluate, Execute. Maybe you remember SIPDE – Scan, Identify, Predict, Decide, Execute. They're really the same thing, Scan and Identify are components of Search and Predict and Decide are components of Evaluate. Your strategy might have a different acronym but surely it includes each of the SEE components.

Let's review those components. Search does not mean to merely look around at your surroundings, that would just be observing or sightseeing. We need to be more aggressive. We need to look for traffic signals/markings, road conditions, and clues about what other road users might do. We need to pay particular attention to the things ahead of us but we can't neglect periodic checks in our mirrors. What we learn when searching is the input to our strategy – if that input is incomplete or faulty, our safety is at risk -- garbage in, garbage out. Be aggressive when you search. Remember: signals/markings, road conditions, other road users.

Chapter Rider's Education

Once we've got some input to work with, it's time to evaluate. This is not a leisure activity either. What we want to do is take all of the facts and clues gathered during the search phase and figure out how they could mix together into the worst possible outcome (worst possible relative to us). If we see an oncoming left turner at the intersection, we've got to assume he doesn't see us and will turn in front of us (an easy evaluation because we know the statistics here and we, correctly, belabor the point often). But we also have to observe the pothole in the adjacent lane and figure out how to protect ourselves against the driver in that lane who will swerve into our lane at the last moment to avoid it. There are probably a dozen different bad things that could happen in the next few seconds and we must foresee them all and decide how to react to maximize our safety. The darn trouble is that of the hundreds of bad things that could happen on any given ride, maybe none of them actually do happen and we start to get complacent. Evaluating is hard work but we cannot afford to get complacent; don't let yourself do that.

Executing is the physical part of SEE. We would like to keep this part as unspectacular as possible. A spectacular quick stop or swerve probably means we did a poor job searching and evaluating. What we are striving for is searching and evaluating that leads to executing more in the nature of adjusting our speed or lane position or maybe communicating with a horn beep or flash of the brake lights. Not a spectacular, last moment maneuver.

Whatever strategy you use, always use it and try to refine and improve it. That is the first and greatest motorcycle riders' commandment in my opinion and I'm sticking to it.

[Of course, the real first and greatest commandment can be found in Mark 12:30. Thought I ought to mention that so you don't think I'm a heathen.]

Charlie and Ellen Smith

Hello fellow GWRRR riders,

I hope this newsletter finds you well and riding a lot. We finally opened the pool, after Samantha has been asking for a month. They are having a great time in the pool and Samantha has learned how to swim without water wings, a noodle or a float. She can swim under water really good and Charlie is teaching her to swim above water too. Benny only used a noodle this year and isn't afraid to be in the pool by himself.

On June 26, 2013 Eddie and Rosa Seale and Charlie and I took off on our trip to Colorado. We trailered our bikes out to Charlie's sister, Charlia and brother-in-law Butch's house in KS. Once we got there, we unloaded the bikes and the next day Eddie, Rosa, Charlia, Butch, Charlie and I took off for a trip that put over 2,000 miles on our bikes. We had nothing but sunshine through KS, but once into CO, we hit sleet on the road to the Continental Divide, it was COLD. Once we reached the divide, we all went inside for some coffee and hot chocolate to warm up a bit. It was a great ride and we saw some beautiful sights. I would recommend the trip to all.

We hope everyone has a safe and lots of riding this summer. Until next time, be safe out on the roads and take care.

Ellen and Charlie Smith, MEC VA-E

Chapter E—Couple of the Year

Eddie and Rosa Seale

Ten day trip to Colorado

On June 26th Charlie, Ellen, Eddie and I took off with our Goldwings on a ten day trip to Colorado. We spent two days driving in the truck with wings in tow to Chanute, Kansas to meet Charlie's sister Charlia and her husband Butch at their home for them to join us on our trip. We spent the night at their home and were treated to a great meal and hospitality. We also met Charlie's mother Virginia she had great stories to tell and kept us laughing the entire time.

Eddie and Rosa at the Continental Divide

The next morning we headed out on our wings and one Harley (yep Butch rode a Harley)! We had a good time joking back and forth about Goldwing's vs. Harleys. Our next stop was Dodge City, Kansas to visit where the famous law man Wyatt Earp served as marshal. We were late in the afternoon arriving so most of the sightseeing tours and activities had ended. So we had a late lunch and got out of Dodge! We then rode across the rest of west Kansas in the 100 degree heat with wheat and corn fields as far as the eye could see. Later into the evening and decided to stop and stay for the night in Lamar, Colorado.

The next morning we headed to Colorado Springs to see Pikes Peak, half way up the mountain we stopped at the entrance and was told we could not take our trailers up the mountain and would have to leave them on the side of the road, we opted to not leave them and turned around and headed back down the mountain, we then toured the garden of the gods where there was magnificent views and rock formations created by nature. We then continued on to Crested Butte, Colorado on Route 24. We went through this huge beautiful valley in the mountains with sunshine and temps in the 70's as we headed up the mountain to cross the Continental Divide the temperature dropped to 51degrees with hail and high winds beating us in the face. We stopped on top of Monarch Mountain, had coffee and hot chocolate and then dressed in our rain suits and warm clothing, we then headed down the other side of the mountain where the temps went back up into the 70's. We arrived at Crested Butte around 10 pm where we met Leona another one of Charlie's sisters. Leona had arranged our accommodations at a very nice condo in Crested Butte.

The next morning Leona brought us food to cook for breakfast. We enjoyed our meal and headed out toward Glenwood Springs, Colorado to meet one of Butch's long time family friends. We traveled through the Black Canyon and stopped a few times for pictures. Butch nearly ran out of gas after 220 miles of riding (he should of bought a wing) lol. Gas stations are few and far in between in the mountains. After spending a little time with Butch's friend we headed back to Crested Butte. We all decided to take a dirt road across the mountain to save 100 miles of riding, The road was 30 miles long, but was hard packed our average speed was 20-25 mph. We all arrived back safely with no problems.

During our time in Colorado we toured the little towns of Crested Butte and Gunnison. In our travels we saw long horn sheep, deer, porcupine, buffalo, llamas and snow on the mountains in July! And Charlie and Ellen saw an elk. We enjoyed the time spent with our friends Charlie and Ellen and our new friends Butch, Charlia and Leona. We are thankful for the hospitality given to us by Charlie and Ellen's family while on our trip.

Tech Tips from the Webdude Rob Hardesty

Typical Modern Cables

Do the terms like VGA, DVI, and HDMI make your head spin? I can't blame you if they do. There are just as many acronyms in the tech industry as there are in the military! So you might be asking yourself, "What do they mean and why do I care?". Well, I guess the best way to approach this topic is to simply address the definitions and some common applications for you to better understand where you might find them.

VGA (Video Graphics Array)

A Video Graphics Array (VGA) connector is a three-row 15-pin DE-15 connector. The 15-pin VGA connector is found on many video cards, computer monitors, and high definition television sets.

VGA connectors and cables carry analog component RGBHV (red, green, blue, horizontal sync, vertical sync) video signals, and VESA Display Data Channel (VESA DDC) data.

DVI (Digital Video Interface)

Digital Visual Interface (DVI) is a video display interface developed by the Digital Display Working Group (DDWG). The digital interface is used to connect a video source to a display device, such as a computer monitor.

DVI was developed to create an industry standard for the transfer of digital video content. The interface is designed to transmit uncompressed digital video and can be configured to support multiple modes such as DVI-D (digital only), DVI-A (analog only), or DVI-I (digital and analog).

HDMI (High Definition Multimedia Interface)

HDMI (High-Definition Multimedia Interface) is a compact audio/video interface for transferring uncompressed video data and compressed/uncompressed digital audio data from a HDMI-compliant device ("the source device") to a compatible computer monitor, video projector, digital television, or digital audio device. HDMI is a digital replacement for existing analog video standards. HDMI is a popular option for connecting DVD players, TVs, Set top boxes to provide high definition video AND audio in the same cable.

Editor's Desk

My fellow "Wingers".

After experiencing my first Wing Ding,, I would like to say thanks to Gordon, Larry, Greg, and Jeff for making the trip a wonderful time while I was there. Although having to cut the trip short, it was an event every member should take at least once during their membership. The many events, workshops, demos and fellowship can be overwhelming ...but a wonderful time.

Recent events had many of us attending the Homegoing of Dannie Hays. While he will be truly missed, we know he is in a place of pure joy. Again, I want to give my condolences to Dannie's family and to you. Keeping you all in prayer.

Happy and safe riding to you all.

Please submit all articles and pictures to the following address;

Thanks and safe

riding!!!
